'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

The subject of today's little effort is that Sunday trip.

* * * *

On Monday someone, name withheld by police or somebody, gets a bright idea.

* * * *

"Let's go to the Russian river on Sunday," the one with the bright idea exclaims.

* * * *

And the children clap their hands and dance around merrily.

* * * *

What could be more perfect that a nice auto trip on Sunday?

* * * *

A number of things that we could mention . . . but we digress . . . let's go ahead with our story.

* * * *

The first question is whether or not old Ben Hur will take the entire party to the river.

* * * *

Deep conference is held, with the results that all vote that Ben Hur will stand up under the pounding.

* * * *

If not, the entire party will be forced to walk back

* * * *

Then comes the question of money. How much will the trip cost?

* * * *

Another huddle is held, with the result that the members of the party agree that five dollars will be the entire cost of the trip.

* * * *

Then comes the question of eats. What to do, what to do?

* * * *

The decision is reached that sandwiches will be taken.

* * * *

Early Sunday morning the party arises, eats a hearty breakfast and the driver of the party goes to the garage.

* * * *

Ben Hur is cocked up saucily on three legs, so to speak.

* * * *

One of the rear tires is flat.

* * * *

"Ah," says our hero, "life is like that." And he repairs the tire . . . saying nothing but thinking a lot . . .

* * * *

And then the party gets into Ben Hur, and starts away. Heigh ho! and all that stuff.

* * * *

"We're off," says the driver as he relaxes in his seat.

* * * *

"Glug! Glug!" says the motor and it dies . . . dies . . . dead!

* * * *

"Ah," says the driver, "life is like that. Into every life a little rain must fall."

* * * *

Up goes the hood. After working half an hour he finds that the car is out of gas.

* * * *

Gasoline is obtained. The car is started. Off again.

* * * *

Two blocks later. Wham! Goes another tire.

* * * *

"Aw, well,' says the driver, "life is like that. Into every life a little rain must fall . ."

* * * *

"But who the devil asked for a cloudburst?"

* * * *

And so, Ben Hur is diven back home on three tires. The junk is piled out of the car and the day is spent in the house.

* * * *

Life's like that.

Rum Conspiracy Told At Seattle Bribe Hearing

LIQUOR KING NAMED IN PLOT

SEATTLE, Aug. 22.—UP—Plans of Roy Olmstead's liquor ring to link the names of wealthy and influential Seattle residents in the rum running conspiracy were revealed today when the former rum king disclosed a plot that was unsuccessful because his associates "talked too much."

Olmstead, testifying in the Lyle-Whitney conspiracy and bribery trial, told of the widespread business he conducted among wealthy Seattle men who demanded the finest kinds of Canadian liquor. As a protection to his own gang, and in connection with prohibition enforcement officials who were allegedly being bribed, he planned to photograph the checks these wealthy men paid for liquor, and use them if necessary to connect as many people as possible with the rum conspiracy.

His plan failed when members of his ring talked too much, and word of the plot reached William Whitney, former legal advisor in the enforcement office.

Boeing Plot

Prominent among the men Olmsted desired to connect with the conspiracy by means of photographed checks, he said, was William E. Boeing, airplane manufacturer, who testified against Olmsted during the 1927 case which resulted in the liquor king going to prison.

Before launching into a description of the rum king's operations Olmsted declared that cooperation between his gang and the prohibition enforcement officers started when Whitney became suspicious of Al Hubbard, who had been "planted" in the prohibition force as a spy for the rum runners.

Olmsted took the stand when Hubbard was dismissed late yesterday after five days of questioning. The rum king resumed his story of liquor activities and alleged conspiracy of Whitney, Roy Lyle, Earl McKinney, former assistant United States attorney.

Bribe Charged

Whitney was accused by Olmsted of accepting bribe money under the guise of acting as attorney for Hubbard.

Olmsted answered all questions directly and firmly, usually looking straight at Leslie E. Slater, government attorney, his questioner, but occasionally flashing glances at the five defendants, who sent him to prison.

MRS. DUTTON IN COLLAPSE

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22.—UP—Accused by her wealthy rancher husband of illicit relations with other men, Mrs. Katherine Dutton today rushed crying from the courtroom where Warren Dutton is on trial for murder.

Mrs. Dutton was said by an attendant to have been found in a hysterical condition on the floor of the rest-room.

Dutton is charged with the murder of Robert E. Arnolde, taxi driver. He has pleaded not guilty by reason of insanity. His insanity, he testified, was due to his wife's alleged flirtations.

In his testimony, the rancher endeavored to prove his insanity plea, stating that he could not even remember the incident of the shooting of the cab driver, whom he said he had never seen before.

He also told of having a "friendly interest" in a clerk in a hotel cigar store, but declared he could not remember whether he had an engagement with her on the day of the shooting.

Members of the accused man's family, including his wife, testified that Dutton acted peculiarly on several occasions.

POLICE CHIEF THREATENED

SANTA BARBARA, Aug. 22.—UP—James Sloan, chief of police, and Thomas M. Harriman, which has been operating 12 miles off the Santa Barbara shore.

"You both are on the spot and we will get you," Sloan said a voice told him over the telephone.

Through the columns of his paper, Strike has been aiding Sloan in a campaign against the barge.

After receiving the warnings, Sloan ordered a continued guard over the wharf with instructions to permit no one to embark on shore boats of the gambling ship. Similar methods employed last year by Santa Monica against the barge proved unsuccessful.

EXPENSES OF OFFICE OF CORONER HIT AT MEETING

Charges and accusations against Coroner Aubrey Wilson flew thick and fast at a Hinkley for Coroner mass meeting in the Point Richmond theater last night.

Wilbur Pierce, former Richmond attorney, and the principal speaker of the evening, scored the present coroner's administration, declaring that expenditures have nearly doubled in the coroner's office over those of the previous administration.

In making this statement Pierce showed figures that purported to show the increase in expenditures, declaring that during the term C. F. Donnelly was coroner expenses totaled an average of $6680.18 per year and that to the present date, expenditures during Wilson's term in office have reached a yearly average of $11,224.03.

Impressive Speech

The speaker delivered an eloquent and impressive speech which was interrupted at frequent intervals by warm bursts of applause from the gathering of almost 100.

In scoring the present administration, Pierce declared that a number of offices in the county were held by men who were "under the thumb of alleged political bosses or dictators, and that if Hinkley is elected to the post, the office will be run in an economical and efficient manner, with no one to take orders from."

Charges that Wilson is now paying men to solicit votes for him were also made by Pierce, who declared that he knew of one instance where a man had been offered $50 to obtain votes, but had refused.

Challenge Made

The speaker issued a verbal challenge to Wilson to dispute this statement.

Hinkley's principal platform for election, that of having the county coroner's office separate from the undertaking business, was also brought forth by Pierce, who declared that at one time Wilson was aligned on the side of Donnelly against Bert Curry, an undertaker who sought the position.

"In what manner can we justify this change of opinion?" Pierce asked the audience.

Pierce closed his campaign talk with the fervent plea that the group cast their vote for "Amos B. Hinkley, a man who is not asking your vote because he is white, yellow, or black, not because he is a Protestant, Catholic or Jew, but because he is a man, and will run the office of county coroner on a platform of honesty, integrity and efficiency."

The meeting was opened by Dr. Hinkley, who introduced Pearson Buchanan, master of ceremonies.

Buchanan rendered two vocal solos, and then introduced the speaker.

CANDIDATE HITS LARGE EXPENSES OF GOVERNMENT

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22.—Before a demonstrative audience of San Francisco who cheered him enthusiastically, Buron Fitts tonight made his final appearance of the campaign in Northern California pledging himself anew to a forward-looking and constructive program for California if elected governor.

Ovation Is Phophetic

Coming from a gathering of Mayor James Rolph's townfolk, the ovation accorded Fitts was regarded as prophetic of the outcome of next Tuesday's primary balloting, in which the contest is conceded to have narrowed down to these two candidates.

Capacity Crowd Present

Fitts' hearers taxed the capacity of Native Sons auditorium. Again and again he was interrupted by applause as he pointed out the shortcomings of the present state administration and the need for a drastic reduction in governmental costs.

The candidate was introduced by Francis V. Keesling, former chairman of the Republican state central committee. Preceding Fitts as a speaker was Joseph Scott, noted orator and Republican leader of Los Angeles.

Ready for Governorship

"This man is ready for the governorship," said Scott. "His experience has trained him for it and he is equipped for the job with that energy and courage so needed at the state capitol in Sacramento. He will give California an administration of affairs which will place this state in its rightful leadership."

Great Increase in Cost

Fitts hammered away in his address at the costly muddling by the present administration on the taxation problem, citing figures to show that in one year the state taxes of the large banks and corporations had been cut from several hundred thousand dollars to practically nothing. He attacked the system of political patronage which, under the guise of reorganization, has resulted in an increased expenditure of $139,000,000 in four years over the costs of the preceding four.

Controlled By Machine

"State government in California for a period of approximately twenty years, with a single interruption of four years," he said, "has been largely controlled by a well-organized political machine. It is the machine that I am fighting. For the first time in many years the leaders who dominate this political organization are divided, some of them backing the incumbent for re-election and others doing what they can to place San Francisco's mayor in the governor's chair. The machine itself wins either way if Young or Rolph is elected.

"Under machine government, regardless of any argument or explanation that can be made, the cost of state government has steadily increased and has taken an alarming jump upward in the last four years.

People Foot Bill

"The statement has been repeatedly made in this campaign by apologists for the present administration that the people do not pay state taxes. Nothing could be farther from the truth than an assertion that the people do not

AIMEE UNDER GUARD AT BEACH

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 22.—UP—Silence settled tonight around the Malibu Beach cottage where Aimee Semple McPherson is recuperating from a nervous breakdown, but at Brentwood sanitarium the garrulity of Mrs. Minnie "Ma" Kennedy in the latest Angelus temple word war remained unbroken.

Two guards, perched on the doorstep of the evangelist's cabin, whittled stoically throughout the day impervious to demands of all comers to visit Mrs. McPherson.

"Mrs. McPherson will see no one," was their answer to all questions. "She needs quiet and must not be disturbed."

Quiet Kept

On an adjacent beach lot, carpenters hammered away at the new dwelling of a prospective neighbor.

Quiet, however, has not been a factor in Mrs. Kennedy's recuperation from a broken nose which she claims her evangelist daughter gave her, and she continued freely with her discussion of Angelus temple affairs.

Chief among Mrs. Kennedy's contributions to her sensational statements of the past ten days, was the announcement that she plans to release soon an "inside" story of Temple affairs.

To Tell Story

The revelations will be given out through her attorneys, the woman said, and among other things will tell the truth so far as she knows it, about the famous kidnaping of Mrs. McPherson in 1926.

She immediately took the edge from this promise however, by admitting that she does not know exactly where Aimee was during the period of the alleged abduction.

Mrs. Kennedy previously had planned to have the document published posthumously, she said, but since the recent temple trouble she has decided to give followers of Mrs. McPherson her viewpoint.

It was indicated the memoirs would trace the rise of Aimee from a "tent preacher" to her present pinnacle as "queen of Angelus Temple."

Aimee Sick

"Ma" Kennedy's present flow of accusations began when she charged that certain persons in the temple were plotting to pull her daughter from its throne. She has declared the alleged plotters are attempting to prove Mrs. McPherson mentally incompetent through their stories of the evangelist's nervous breakdown.

Despite the mother's assertions that Mrs. McPherson merely is recovering from a face lifting operation and has had no breakdown, Rr. E. H. Williams who is attending the latter said his patient would not be able to preach for at least another week.

Music will be furnished by Denny Shaw's orchestra.

HIGH SCHOOL GRID SQUAD AT WORK

Phil Hempler and Frank Ribbel, athletic coaches at Richmond Union High school, are busily transforming the raw recruits for positions on the Red and Blue grid team into players of real value.

A squad of more than 40 boys, about 40 boys, about 20 of whom have had previous football experience, is being whipped into shape by Ribbel and Hempler in preparation for the game with Oakland Technical High school next Friday.

Ribbel, who has had three years of varsity experience at the University of California, is handling this year's backfield. He also served as assistant Freshman football coach at the Berkeley institution. The local line is being coached by Phil Hempler, head coach at Richmond Union High school. Under the coaching of these two experienced athletes, the high school football team of 1930 should live up to the reputation held by the teams of Richmond High under the coaching of Ivan Hill.

Hempler reports that he is finding plenty of fine, new material that should be useful on this year's squad. Two of the most promising neophytes are Joe Corrazzo, who is trying for the guard position, and Reno Passone, lanky and speedy end.

A hard and heavy season will start next Friday afternoon when the Oakland Technical High school eleven mixes with the local pigskin toters on the Richmond High school diamond.

The first three games of the season will be played on the local field. Alameda County Athletic league football competition will start on Oct. 24. One game will be played against each of the other three teams in the league — Alameda, Berkeley, and Piedmont.

The tentative schedule for the 1930 Richmond Union High school football season is as follows:

Aug. 29 .....Tech at Richmond
Sept. 5 ..University at Richmond
Sept. 12 McClymonds at Richmond
Sept. 19 .....San Leandro there
Sept. 26 ....Oakland High there
Oct. 3 ..... Open
Oct. 10 ..... Open
Oct. 17 ..... Open
Oct. 24 ..... Alameda there
Oct. 31 ..... Berkeley there

Soccer Team To Start Practice

Soccer will once more occupy the attention of Richmond sports fans this autumn and winter. The first practice of the season will be held at Nicholl park Sunday morning, and preliminary plans for the years' competition will be laid at a meeting of local soccer athletes next week.

A group of the fastest soccer athletes of this district is expected to compose this years Richmond soccer aggregation. The local team came very near the top in last year's Eastbay Soccer league. Many veterans are expected to be present in this season's outfit, and should prove themselves very useful on the Richmond squad of 1930.

Bushrod Net Team To Meet Richmond Club

The Bushrod Tennis team of Oakland will come to Richmond Aug. 31 in quest of revenge upon the net squad of the Richmond Tennis association.

The Bushrod tennis athletes were severely repulsed in their last encounter with the local netmen. Richmond captured eight out of the 12 matches played in that tournament.

The visiting Oaklanders are therefore anxious to secure the scalp of the Richmond team, and are reckoned upon to make a stronger showing than they made in the first meet of the series. However, Richmond possesses a team excedingly difficult to defeat, and the odds seem to be pretty well on the side of the local players.

The tournament will be played on the Richmond City Hall courts.

Public Address System Planned For U. C. Bowl

BERKELEY, Aug. 22.—If the acoustics of the California Memorial stadium permit, a public address system will be installed there for the 1930 football season by the Associated Students of the University of California.

The executive committee of the association has approved the plan subject to the results of an investigation of the problem by engineers. If the plan is found to be feasible, equipment will be rented for the season starting with the California-Santa Clara game on September 27.

The loud speakers would be installed on the east rim of the bowl. Final action will not be taken by the committee until the engineers have reported. The installation of the equipment for the games on the home schedule would involve an expenditure of $1500, according to W. W. Monahan, graduate manager.

JEFFERIES WILL ATTEND BAER BATTLE

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22.—Jack Dempsey will not be the only ex-heavyweight champion of the world to attend the Frankie Campbell-Max Baer heavyweight bout for the Pacific coast title, which will be fought at Recreation ball park here next Monday night.

Jim Jeffries will be among those present and with him will be his sensational young heavyweight protege, Al Morro ,who recently defeated Armand Emanuel in his second fight.

Jeffries yesterday phoned Promoter Ancil Hoffman from Los Angeles, asking him to set aside four seats, and telling him that a large delegation of fight fans are coming up from Los Angeles to see the contest.

Both Campbell and Baer are in the final days of their training and both appear to be in the proverbial pink of condition for the ten-round contest.

Baer rules a strong favorite in the betting, but many fans who have watched Campbell in training are taking a whirl at the short end money.

The match has created more interest than any match put on here in months and the advance sale has far exceeded expectations.

The remainder of the contest arranged for the show by Promoter Hoffman follow:

Hans Birkie vs. Ray Spiker, heavyweights, six rounds.

Tom Toner vs. Ted Jernigan, Negro, heavyweights, four rounds.

Joe Bernal vs. "Red" McDonald, welterweights, four rounds.

Elwin Lee vs. Joe Daclan, bantamweights ,four rounds.

Local Netmen To Meet Today In Fast Match

Leadership of the perpetual Richmond Tennis club ladder tournament will be in the balance this morning when Jimmy Hurley, highest ranking player in the tourney, will meet Darrow Sutton, who is at present in third place.

The critical match will be played on the Point Richmond tennis courts, and will start at eight o'clock this morning.

Hurley, a Richmond Union High school student, has now been at the top of the local ladder for several months, and is regarded as one of the steadiest net athletes in Contra Costa county.

Sutton, another high school net star, has had a meteoric rise to eastbay tennis fame. Several weeks ago he was only on the thirteenth rung of the local tournament ladder. He has reached the third, and feels capable of successfully climbing the remaining steps.

Participants in the Richmond ladder tournament reach higher standings by challenging players of higher standings.

BERKELEY, Aug. 22. — Six awards to members of University of California spring sports teams have just been made by the executive committee of the Associated Students. Big "C's" have been granted to Lowell Bondshu of Oakland and Robert Ulsh, of Berkeley, both hurdlers, for placing in the California Intercollegiate meet in May. Joseph Demeter, of Berkeley; John Moore, of Stockton; Gerald Normand, of San Francisco, and Philip Shipley, of Santa Rosa, were granted freshman numerals for participation in the Poughkeepsie Regatta late in June.

PEP RALLY TO BE HELD AT SCHOOL

School loyalty will be expressed in music, yells, parades, and pep talks next Thursday evening when the pupils of Richmond Union high school gather at the annual Oakland Tech game rally.

Final plans were made for the rally at a meeting of the high school Student Body yesterday morning. The rally parade will march through the downtown streets early in the evening, and will finally end at the high school, where the students will encourage their gridders who will see action on the following day in the first game of the 1930 season. A huge bonfire will be built by the sophomores.

Many other matters of importance were discussed at yesterday's meeting, including amendments to the Student Body constitution, traffic in the halls, and the choice of yell leaders for the coming term. Harry Transue, president of the organization, was empowered to appoint a committee to make necessary amendments to the constitution. Transue will also appoint a committee to make final plans for the rally.

Yells were given at the meeting by Alpheus Brooks, Albert Schneider, Harman Jatta, and Woodrow Snodgrass. The first three boys are candidates for the office of yell-leader.

It was suggested at the meeting that a midget golf tournament be organized between the high school punils, and that it be played on the Golfette course on Tenth street.

YANKEES LOSE, ROBINS GO DOWN

By UNITED PRESS

American League—

The Cleveland Indians extended their winning streak to seven consecutive games Friday when they defeated the New York Yankees, 5 to 4. Roy Sherid, who was relieved in the fifth inning, allowed all of the Cleveland runs. Lou Gehrig was the batting star of the game, getting his 36th home run of the season in the second and his 37th in the fourth inning.

After being held to two hits until the ninth inning by "Bumps" Hadley ,the St. Louis Browns came to life in the ninth to score three runs to tie the score and got another in the 10th inning to defeat the Washington Senators, 4 to 3. The Browns shoved across the winning tally on a walk, a hit batsman, a single and Goslin's infield out.

Ted Lyons won his 18th victory of the year as the Chicago White Sox humbled the Boston Red Sox 6 to 4. The White Sox wiped out a two-run deficit in the sixth when they got to Danny MacFayden for four runs .

Vic Sorrell allowed the Philadelphia Athletics but seven hits and struck out seven batsmen as the Detroit Tigers defeated the league-leaders, 7 to 1 .Earnshaw, Mahaffey and C. Perkins opposed Sorrell.

National League—

The Chicago Cubs increased their lead on the National league field by defeating the New York Giants, 12 to 4 in the second of the four game series. A five run rally in each of the first and eighth innings accounted for the victory.

Even the wizardry of Dazzy Vance could not pull the Brooklyn Robins out of their slump and the Robins lost their third straight to the Cincinnati Reds, 4 to 1. Brooklyn got its lone run in the seventh inning by bunching two hits off Larry Benton.

The Pittsburgh Pirates ran their winning streak to four straight by downing the Boston Braves 10 to 3. The win enabled Larry French, Pirates' southpaw ,to hang up his 14th victory of the season. Pie Traynor batted in four runs with three hits to lead the Pirates at the plate.

After spotting the Phillies five runs in the first three innings the St. Louis Cardinals closed with a rush to take the game, 10 to 8.

Odd Fellows, Native Sons To Meet For Title

Ownership of the Richmond City Twilight baseball league title will be decided tomorrow morning when the Odd Fellows and Native Sons clash at First street at 10 o'clock.

There should be plenty of thrills waiting for the Richmond baseball fan tomorrow on the First street lot, judging by the intense rivalry and sensational records of both the teams trying for the title. Several brand new baseballs will also probably be donated to the inhabitants of the Santa Fe camp tomorrow, as both squads have been renowned during the entire season as two of the hardest-hitting outfits this side of the bay.

The Odd Fellows will have a busy Sunday of competition tomorrow, for, besides their title bout, they will tangle with the Corey Garage nine at 2:30 o'clock at San Pablo. This contest will decide the winner of a three game series between the lodgemen and the Coreys.

Hazel McRacken Leads Tourney

A field of 48 players was led by Miss Hazel McRacken of Richmond in the Berkeley club's monthly invitational sweepstakes tournament recently. Miss McRacken made the 18 holes in 88. This score was one stroke under the score set by Mrs. C. B. Kenney in the first flight to win her the low net. Mrs. Kenney's score was 89-9-90.

Seals Win Third Game Of Series

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug .22—UP—The San Francisco Seals won the third game of their series with the Seattle Indians here today, 6 to 4.

TWO VARSITY GRID TEAMS FOR U. C.

BERKELEY, Aug. 22.— The practical completion of registration for the fall semester at the University of California has brought no little satisfaction to Coach C. M. "Nibs" Price and his staff of football tutors.

A check-up of the registration directory today showed that virtually every player of importance has returned to college. More than 50 football men are registered, and only a scattering of stragglers remain to be accounted for. Price is assured of adequate material—his chief concern thus far—to put into operation his "double eleven" plan. The usual turnout of "unknowns" should swell the ranks of his gridders to satisfactory proportions when the training season opens September 15.

Meanwhile two projected major innovations in the California style of play are the subject of considerable discussion on the Berkeley campus: the introduction of a modified shift which embodies the line shift used last year plus a backfield maneuver; and the Bear mentors' plan for two teams, both rates as varsities.

Nibs Confident

To observers of the Bear football fortunes the announcement of the plan is looked upon as a manifestation of Price's confidence in his material. In recent years the Bears have considered themselves fortunate to have eleven Grade A players with sufficient replacements for emergencies. Under the new plan the personnel of the two teams will undoubtedly interlook —that is, players will shift from one "varsity" to the other—but there will be two "first strings." This means, obviously, that the men who make up what would normally be the third string must be capable of substituting for varsity men if necessary.

How the system will work is best demonstrated by a survey of the material.

Four letter winners will fill the end positions. Russ Avery and "Togo" Thornton, both seasoned veterans, may pair up on one team, with Bob Bartlett and "Chuck" Whyte on the other. The latter two end's earned their first letters last season. These two combinations in turn might be revised. Jack DeBenedetti, who was set back by an injury last season, and Lois Di Resta, former "goof" ,will be held in reserve.

Cahn Back

About the same arrangement is possible at tackle. Nick Bican and "Fritz" Cahn were paired together last season, their first of varsity competition, and may be used together again this year. What is more likely is that one or the other will be used with Dolph Timmerman, 1929 regular, leaving a place open on one of the teams for Mal Soombs, who was injured in midseason last year, but who leads the non-letter contenders for a place at tackle.

Captain Carl Handy and Ted Beckett, a tackle in 1929, will team together at guard. No other letterme are available here, but Handy's younger brother Don, who has won some renoun as an intercollegiate heavyweight boxer, and Gene Elerding, an end last year, look to have the makings of capable guards, though both lack experience.

Herman Eickmeyer, Captain Roy Riegels' understudy last season, will get the call for one place at center and Frank Medanich, also a letterman, will get the other. In reserve will be Thor Hansen and Sanford Berenson, both 1929 'goofs'.

Griffiths Quarter

Backfield arrangements are more complex. Ed Griffiths, former halfback, and Ed Kirwan are the quarterback lettermen. Griffiths will call signals for one team and Kirwan will have a strong competitor in Bill McCutcheon for a place in the other lineup. Three other quarters are on call, headed by Jim Sheridan, of the 1929 varsity squad.

Two former fullbacks, "Moose" Garrity and Joe Hickingbotham, will be used at half. George Watkins, the best punter on the roster, may pair with one or the other. Ray East, 10-flat sprinter, Henry Schaldach, Ralph Seely and Sheldon Potter will be the chief contestants for the other place. Joe Coffield, basketball captain, was used in spring practice in combination with both Garrity and Hickingbotham. "Rusty" Gill and Joe Smith will probably divide the fullback honors, with Verne Binder ex-goof and Gus Castro, sophomore, in reserve.

Make A Guess

THREE OF these heads are real—the other two are wax dummies. Just try to pick out the live ones.

Two Funerals, Still Living

CRESTON, Ia.—UP—Two funeral services already have been held for J. B. "Mike" Dolan and he still is alive.

Dolan was living in Oklahoma two years ago when he departed to a neighboring city on a visit. Shortly thereafter a body was cut down from a tree along a highway and was identified as that of Mike Dolan, supposedly a victim of robbers.

It was several weeks before Mike returned and brought happiness to relatives who were sorrowful at his supposed death.

In January of this year, a man registered at a hotel here as Mike Dolan became suddenly sick was taken to a hospital and died within a few hours. Relatives of the Mike of this story who live here identified the body and again the funeral lines were read for Mike.

A few days ago Mike walked into his step-daughter's home here, astounded to learn of his supposed death as were his relatives to see him alive. Mike had been working in Texas.

Good Cantaloupe Crop Indicated

TURLOCK.—Cantaloupe lovers will be pleased by the report of a survey of this famous melon district which indicates a larger crop than usual and melons of uniformly good flavor. More than 7500 acres will be in bearing, several hundred more than last year. Climatic conditions this year parallel those of 1916, the year that first made Turlock melons famous for their flavor, the report said.

Premier Tardieu Now "Gastronome"

PARIS. —UP— Premier Andre Tardieu has just been elected to that exclusive and snobbish society of good eaters which call itself the Academie des Gastronomes. The present strong man of France passed the wine tasting test with flying colors, and despite a bad mark in salads was given a grade well up in the nineties.

Bullets Greet Census Taker

MISSOULA, Mont.—UP—The fact that life still courses through the veins of one particular census enumerator is not the fault of that conscientious and courageous person. It's the fault of the poor shooting eyes of unknown "hill billies."

Three times did this enumerator strive to gain access to the Binkham country in northwestern Montana and three times was he made the target of bullets fired from ambush.

Evidently the district is populated by a nest of moonshiners who display a persistent desire to discourage visitors.

In the meantime there are still a few "noses" in Montana that haven't been counted.

Violator Prefers Church Sentence

BLUFFTON, Ind.—Joe Pepper, convicted recently on charges of violating prohibition laws, was offered a choice of either being sent to the penal farm for six months or attending church twice on Sundays for a like period. He told Judge A. W. Hamilton, of the Wells circuit court, who sentenced him that he would prefer the church.

Soviet Hit For Tactics

TSURUGA, Japan.—Charges of oppression and high handed tactics were made here recently against the Soviet authorities in Vladivostok by Japanese returning from the Siberian city.

One woman, Mrs. Kame Seki, owner of a department store and public bath in Vladivostok and a resident of that city for 30 years, accused the authorities of confiscating her property and turning it into a police station. Negotiations for the return of her building proved fruitless, she added.

Several other arrivals said they had left Vladivostok because of unjust measures taken by the Soviet police. One man, who had been carrying on a fishing business in Russian waters, complained that he was fined 1600 rubles on the grounds that he failed to provide adequate sanitary equipment on his vessels.

Negro Arrested While Carrying "Bottle To Police"

RICHMOND, Ind.—UP—An excuse new to Richmond police was offered when Richard Irvin, negro, was arrested for possession of liquor. Irvin told Judge B. A. Ball that he found the bottle of liquor under a boarding house pillow, and was rushing to the police station with it when arrested.

War Started On Unfit Drivers

DETROIT. —UP— A campaign against automobile drivers who are physically unfit to handle their vehicles has resulted in the demand by Prosecuting Attorney Chenot that the licenses alleged epileptics be revoked. A check is to be made with hospital records to discover any more such incompetent drivers.

Mrs. O'Donnell Leads Lady Birds

WICHITA, Kas., Aug. 22.—Mrs. Gladys O'Donnell, Long Beach aviatrix, added to her lead in the national women's air derby today when she won the hop from Amarillo, Texas, to Wichita.

Mrs. O'Donnell landed her plane at 3:06 p. m., eight minutes ahead of Miss Marjorie Doig.

Farmers Asked To Protect Game Birds

NASHVILLE, Tenn. —UP— The farmers of Tennessee may make or break the quail life of the state within the next few months, the state game warden stated recently in urging them to take care in cutting clover and hay crops to avoid destroying the birds' nests.

New Motion Pictures To Be Shown Soon

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 22.—A new motion picture process which, according to its inventor, will give the stereoscopic effect of natural vision, is to be shown here for the first time next Sept. 15.

George K. Spoor, a pioneer in the motion picture industry and inventor of the new "depth" film, has devoted 14 years to the development of the process in which an effect of natural vision is achieved.

Radical changes in cinema production are involved in Spoor's invention, he said. The new technique starts with an improved type of camera and leads through all stages of production. Nearly $7,000,000 has been spent in the development, it was said.

The camera evolved by Spoor contains two lenses which record the photographic image through a single opening. These are so placed as to give a "staggered" effect to the image as it appears on the film. This in turn is projected in a manner which lends the subject depth when it shows on the screen.

The new process is said to include a change in the time allowed each image in the film as it appears behind the lens. With this projection principle, the single images are allowed to dissolve into succeeding images, eliminating wavering on the screen.

The inventor also announced that by the first of the year he will have completed a camera for making natural vision pictures in full color under radically different methods.

Gas Truck Driver May Die Of Burns

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 22.—UP—Turned into a human torch when his clothing, which had been saturated with gasoline burst into flame, Hugh D. Miller, 35, disregarded the searing heat and rushed to shut off the safety valve of his gasoline truck.

The accident occurred when Miller, driver for the California Tank Line company, was filling a tank a ta service station. He is not expected to live.

Miller pulled the tank hose aside to permit a customer to drive out of the station. Apparently he pulled too hard and the hose nozle came out of the underground tank, squirting a stream of gasoline on the motor of the customer's machine.

U. C. Tracksters Prospects Good

BERKELEY, Aug. 22.— While football is the chief subject of discussions of athletics at the University of California, Walter Christie, Bear track coach, is looking over freshmen prospects with pleasure. This year's crop brought him three sprinters: Bob Kiessel, the Tamalpais high school flash; Fran Kilfoil, of Oneonta Military Academy, South Pasadena and Jim Keefer, of Chico. In addition Chas Stewart, captain and quarterback last season at the Oneonta academy, has registered. He is an all 'round athlete, and may prove a track prospect.

BILL POWELL IN VAN DINE FILM HERE

William Powell is one of the few Hollywood actors who has had a chance to become thoroughly acquainted with a character he portrays. In "The Benson Murder Case," S. S. Van Dines' popular detective story, which will show at the Fox-California theater today, Powell plays the role of Philo Vance, famous fiction detective, for the third time in as many pictures.

Stage players, appearing day after day in the same role, have an opportunity to profit as they go and to improve their performances as experience suggests. This opportunity for close study of a role is one of the chief claims to advantage advanced by repertory groups; Eva LeGallienne's New York players being an example. But rarely has this opportunity been extended to film players. Generally the screen actor must give the absolute best that is in him at the time the picture is made, and then "forget about it." The chance to repeat the role seldom ever comes.

Powell's case, however, is a notable exception. He interpreted Philo Vance for the first time in "The Canary Murder Case" repeated and improved his characterization in "The Greene Murder Case," and, with the production of the third of the S. S. Van Dine stories, "The Benson Murder Case," Powell believes he has perfected his understanding of the man he portrays.

"Philo Vance was a bit hard to get acquainted with," Powell says. "When we started "The Canary Murder Case," I felt that I scarcely knew him. Philo is a difficult person. You must resent him, must almost hate him, but still you must like him. He is a gentleman, and also a boor. At times he is overbearing and pompous. He offered me the most difficult characterization I have ever been called upon to portray.

"I began to get fairly close to Philo in "The Canary Murder Case" and, in my latter scenes in the picture, I felt much better able to portray him than I did in the early sequences. Perhaps the difference was not noticeable to the audiences, but I felt the difference. When "The Greene Murder Case" was presented to me, however, I found that I knew Vance with an intimacy I had never felt before. And in "The Benson Murder Case" I felt easy in the part right at home."

HOOT GIBSON IN WESTERN FILM

Hoot Gibson proves again that "action" is his middle name, in "The Mounted Stranger," Universal's thrill-packed picture of the hard-riding, hard-fighting West, which opened at the Richmond theater last night.

Hoot provides all of the old thrills which put him by himself in the class of western stars—and adds plenty of new ones for good measure. Hoot, after playing around with automobiles, airplanes and such modern contraptions in recent pictures, returns to his first love—the horse.

He proves easily that he is unsurpassed as a horseman ,and even has added to the skill and cunning that won the all-around championship at the famous Pendleton Ore., roundup.

The action of "The Mounted Stranger" is laid in the old romantic Southwest, down near the border. Hoot plays the part of a daredevil cowpuncher, who singlehanded sets out to avenge the death of his father at the hands of a gang of bad men.

In addition to its thrills, the picture abounds in romance and Hoot's particular brand of western humor. Sound and dialogue add immensely to the effectiveness of the picture.

Louise Lorraine makes a charming heroine. The exceptional cast includes Francis Ford, Fred Burns, Walter Patterson, James Corey, Milton Brown, "Buddy" Hunter and Francelia Billington.

Arthur Rosson directed "The Mounted Stranger" which is based on Henry H. Knibbs' famous story, "The Riding Kid From Powder River."

Skunk Family Invades Camp

KELSO, Wash., Aug. 22.—UP—The cook at the mess tent at the Weyerhaeuser Timber company camp on South Toutle river was driven nearly to distraction by a family of skunks, pap, mam, all the brothers and sisters and a few cousins.

Each night at meal time the skunks would invade the tent and drive out the loggers.

One night Tabby, the camp cat, wandered into the tent just after the skunks had entered. The skunks, one and all, made a bee line for Tabby who scampered wildly to the woods with the skunks in hot pursuit.

That gave the cook his "big idea." Now, when he is ready to serve a meal he has Tabby locked up and as soon as the skunks appear he turns her loose; the chase is on; and the loggers eat in peace.

SWING HIGH TO BE SHOWN AT FOX

For the first time in film history screen fans have the opportunity to decide at one sitting whether their preferences in the matter of pretty girls lean toward ingenues, vamps or the good-girl with-naughty-ways type.

The three leading exponents of each school—as far as advance styles, 1930 models are concerned—have been gathered together for the principal feminine roles in "Swing High," a dramatic Pathe dialogue and singing production which boasts an amazing cast of popular stage and screen favorites and which will be on view at the Fox-California theater tomorrow.

Playing the principal role in this picturesque circus romance is Helen Twelvetrees, demure and wistful-eyed youngster, whom a critic once dubbed "a Lillian Gish with stage experience."

As the beautiful but brazen heavy of the picture will be seen Dorothy Burgess. Miss Burgess created a sensation when 'In Old Arizona" presented her in her first seductive and-sinful role. She has since added to her laurels with similar characterizations both on stage and screen.

Completing the triumvirate is little Sally Starr, snappy-eyed possessor of pep and personality, whom many regard as Clara Bow's leading contender for the title of "High Priestess of It."

The Misses Twelvetrees, Burgess and Starr furnish the sex appeal of a cast which includes Fred Scott, Bryant Washburn, George Fawcett, Nick Stuart and Robert Edeson.

Reliable comedy is provided by such sterling thespians as Chester Conklin, Daphne Pollard, Ben Turpin and Stepin' Fetchit. Joseph Stanley directed ,under the supervision of E. B. Derr, producer.

COUNTY LEADS IN TRAFFIC FINES

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 22.—Indicative of a general increase in the standard of efficiency in motor law enforcement since the bill signed by Governor C. C. Young creating a unified state patrol became effective, the California Highway Patrol today made public a complete summary of the activities of its officers on the highways for the first six months of 1930.

The report shows a total of 127,213 persons were stopped on the roads for various offenses during the period, an average of 374 for each of the 340 officers employed.

Actual arrests for major offenses during the period totaled 35,070 and the erring motorists thus caught, paid fines totaling $161,473.35. In addition to this amount, they were responsible for the collection of $32,278 in delinquent motor vehicle license fees.

Better Record

Superintendent Eugene W. Biscailuz predicts that an even better record will be established during the last half of the year as the details incidental to organization of the patrol were not completed until several weeks after the beginning of the year.

During the period the officers of the patrol rode a total of 3,513,681 miles in patrolling their beats.

Of the motorists stopped 7267 were for speeding, 53,494 for faulty or glaring lights, 15,631 for breaking rules of the road, 8224 for operating overloaded trucks and 42,597 for miscellaneous offenses.

Many Arrests

San Diego county with its squad of 23 men stopped 7598, the largest number, this record having been established largely because of the county's Mexican border problem. Fines collected in that county totaled $811,974.

Contra Costa led in fines the total assessed motorists there for state infractions being $15,075 for the six-months period.

In addition to their other duties, the officers assisted in the examination of some 32,000 persons for operators' licenses and served 764 warrants.

Much Action

"Although the record will show that our men have been active in patrolling the highways, we do not regard the number of arrests as the test of efficiency," said H. R. Youngblood, assistant superintendent. "While arrests are necessary at times a friendly warning will often be as effective. What we do regard as most important is that the officer be always on the job not only to warn and arrest the erring but to give protection to the law abiding and help to those in need of assistance."

Unified state control of the traffic situation was made possible last year when Governor Young signed the Breed bill putting all county squads under one head.

Pullman Nine To Meet Fageol Team

The Pullman service nine, formerly the Albany All-Stars, will meet the Faggeol Flyers tomorrow afternoon on the Albany park diamond. The game is scheduled to start at 2 o'clock.

The Pullman squad has been well known in eastbay baseball circels, and should be able to overcome the Flyers this week-end at Albany.

Many Vets On State Traffic Patrol Force

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 22.—Records of the California Highway Patrol today revealed that approximately two-thirds of the officers and clerks employed in the state motor law enforcement organization are war veterans.

Of the 412 inspectors, captains, patrolmen and clerks, the records show 297 have had military training. At least 60 percent of the men with such training served in the World War and most of these had service overseas.

The personnel of the patrol includes a half dozen ex-army fliers, several former majors and captains and one brigadier-general.

At highway patrol school classes conducted recently in Sacramento, it was found possible to organize close order drill platoons in a few minutes because so many of the men had seen service in military organizations.

All other things being equal, it is the policy of the patrol's administrative officers to give preference to former service men because they have found such men make better officers.

"Men with military training lend themselves better to discipline and are quicker to grasp the idea of courtesy and service that dominates the organization," said James J. Borree, head of the bureau of schools and education.

"The man with military training has a keen sense of his responsibility as a public servant and an understanding of the necessity of keeping himself in good physical condition."

Savant Will Do Work For Japan Ruler

LA JOLLA, Aug. 22.—At the request of the Emperor of Japan, Dr. T. Dayland Vaughan, director of the Scripps Institution of Oceanography of the University of California, is attempting the identification of a collection of corals from photographs. The emperor is an enthusiastic biologist and has a private biological laboratory on his palace grounds.

The photographs were received from Prof. H. Hattori, director of the Tokugawa Institute for Biological Research. About a hundred photographs form the collection, and many of these show forms so delicate that it would be almost impossible to pack and ship them safely. For this reason Director Vaughan has been asked to identify them from the photographs, as Japan has no qualified authority on corals.

The pictures were taken with great skill and care, Dr. Vaughan says, evidence of this being shown in the clearness of detail of the structure and form of the corals, as well as by the natural beauty of the photographs. Most of the corals were obtained from the Bonin Islands, 500 miles south of the mainland of Japan, and noted for their coral growths.

EIGHT DROWNED WHEN YACHT SINKS

FOWNEY, Cornwall, England, Aug. 23—UP—Battered by heavy seas in a terrific gale which lashed the English coast and did much damage to shipping, the Islander, of the Royal Yacht squadron was a total wreck on the rocks of Lanivet bay today and eight persons, known to have been aboard, were believed lost.

Commodore Henry Douglas King, former secretary of mines, chartered the Islander to participate in the squadron regatta and is believed to have perished.

Others aboard were known to include Surgeon-Captain A. R. Brailey, medical officer of the British training ship President; Commander Sydney Searle, of the R. N. Volunteers reserve; Capt. Glazebrook of Bishop Stratford; the captain of the Islander; and three deck hands.

The bodies of two young children were washed ashore. They were believed to have been from the Islander but no proof of the fact that they were on board was found late this evening.

The tragedy occurred during Wednesday night when the captain of the Islander apparently seeking to run before the gale and make port at Fowney was driven on the rocks at the base of the cliffs on the storm lashed coast.

Planes Used By Missions In Far North

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 22.—UP—The airplane has supplanted the husky dog in the spread of Christianity in Alaska, and henceforward Catholic missionaries will fly between the outposts of the church in the far north, according to Brother George J. Feltes, S. J.

The church official is en route to Holy Cross Mission, 300 miles up the Yukon, in a Bellanca amphibian monoplane donated to the Jesuits by the Marquette League of New York City.

After a brief pause in Los Angeles, Brother Feltes, accompanied by Father Phillip Delon, who boarded the plane with him in Long Island, headed his big amphibian up the coast toward Alaska.

The ship will be used for communication between the chain of Jesuit missions extending from Behring Strait to Anchorage, and inland to Fairbanks. It is equipped with radio and other conveniences.

Brother Feltes, a native of San Francisco, and for several years stationed at St. Ignatius church in that city, is an experienced pilot. He expected his flight to the Holy Cross mission on the Yukon would require about four weeks.

New Business Course To Be Given At U. C.

BERKELEY, Aug. 22.—A curriculum in business administration, leading to the degree of Master of Science, is announced by the College of Commerce of the University of California. This curriculum is open to those who hold the degree of Bachelor of Science in commerce at the state university, or its equivalent. The purpose of the graduate year, as announced by Dean H. F. Grady, is to enable such students as already have had general training in the fundamentals of accounting, statistics and commercial law, and a more or less advanced training in some of the fields of applied economics, to secure at intimate contact with and a broader understanding of the problems which face the business executive.

"For some time," says the announcement, "it has been felt that the College of Commerce should give students preparing to enter the field of business an opportunity to round out their undergraduate work with a year of intensive research in business problems.

"The graduate year in commerce has been planned to assist the graduate to gain a comprehensive knowledge of business problems and to develop the capacity to solve these problems. This year will be devoted very largely to research in business. Considerable latitude will be permitted in the choice of courses. While a certain amount of class work will be required in the specialized fields of accounting, banking, business administration, transportation, foreign trade, etc., the curriculum has been so planned as to allow each student to devote a large part of his time to the solution of the particular problem or problems in which he is interested, under competent faculty supervision."

ASHES OF AIR PILOT THROWN FROM PLANE

BERKELEY, Aug. 22.—Carrying out the last wish of Lieutenant Harry Abbott who was killed Saturday when his plane crashed to the ground, his widow today flew high over the bay and scattered his ashes into the waters below.

Shortly after noon today, flying companions of the late veteran aviator took their planes to Berkeley to escort Mrs. Mary Alice Abbott on the funeral flight.

A formation of 15 planes took off from the field at 2 o'clock headed by a plane piloted by Captain E. B. Smith, friend and fellow flier of Colonel Abbott in which rode Mrs. Abbott carrying the ashes of her dead husband.

Standing on the Berkeley field only a short distance from where their father's plane crashed, children of Mrs. Abbott watched the funeral ceremonies. They are Dan, 7, Jack, 8, Patrick, 5 and a fourth son, Harry, 9 who is now in Los Angeles with relatives.

SAN PABLO DAM WATER AT NEW HEIGHT

San Pablo reservoir, situated in the hills back of Berkeley, one of the principal local storage basins of the East Bay Municipal Utility district, is now nearly one foot higher than it has ever been since it was constructed, according to the current report to the board of directors by J. S. Longwell, assistant chief engineer and general manager, who is directing the affairs of the Utility district, during the absence of Frank W. Hanna, chief engineer and general manager.

The water surface in San Pablo reservoir reached its previous high water mark in the spring of 1927 and is now .82 feet higher than the previous water line. This brings the water within 32 feet of the spillway and indicated the possibility that this fifteen billion gallon reservoir may be filled to capacity at some later date.

Water finds it way from the three mile tunnel through the hills to the San Pablo filtration plant and is served to a large area in Berkeley, parts of Oakland and communities in Contra Costa county.

Wew Mark

This high water line, according to Longwell, is due to the large quantity of water brought down from the Pardee reservoir this spring and summer. The Mokelumne line has been operating to capacity during the past month delivering a total of sixty-eight million gallons of water daily. This large transmission of water together with the water used for the operation of the power plant, reduced the level in Pardee reservoir 7.4 feet during the first fifteen days of August and lowered the water to approximately 20 feet below the crest of the spillway over which it flowed for several weeks in May. At the same time the water at San Pablo reservoir was raised 1.14 feet, and upper San Leandro reservoir was raised 0.96 feet, this during the period of the greatest summer consumption and during the season when, always in the past, local water reserves have been in process of depletion.

The remaining storage in Pardee reservoir is now approximately fifty billion gallons. The water level is being lowered not only by transmission of water through the Mokelumne line but by the passage of a large quantity through the power house which during the first half of August supplied 3,500,000 kilowatt hours to the Pacific Gas & Electric company.

Much Water

Local storage reservoirs now hold approximately eight and one half billion gallons of water which, roughly, is sufficient to supply the east bay cities about eight and one half months.

The cash receipts of the various business offices of the district for the first two weeks of August were $220,952.90. There were 93 applications for new services during this period of which 58 were in Oakland, 20 in Berkeley, six in Alameda and nine in Richmond. This is an increase of five over the number received for the first two weeks of July. During this same period 105 families moved into the district, sixty-five locating in Oakland, 28 in Berkeley, seven in Alameda and five in Richmond.

Safety Council To Arrange For Club Speakers

Stimulation of interest in the safety movement is to be inspired in a new series of educational talks before service clubs in Oakland during the fall months, according to announcement by Ramsey Probasco following a meeting of the board of governors of the East Bay Safety Council yesterday.

Probasco said he will name a special committee and will discuss the matter further at the next meeting of the executive committee with a view of having a series of educational talks before various organizations, urging greater public co-operation in the safety program as laid down by the council.

The Junior Traffic Reserve work is to be carried along with enthusiasm this year, according to Arthur W. Moore, who heads this branch of this work. He expects to address many thousands of pupils at various school gatherings during the semester and to give his personal assistance to the further broadening of the work along the plans already laid down by the Safety Council and the police department. Chief of Police James T. Drew said that wholehearted co-operation will continue to be forthcoming from the police department.

Grant D. Miller, a member of the board of governors said that automobile deaths, while still on the increase, are not increasing as rapidly as population and automobile registration, and he declared that the educational work of the East Bay Safety Council in Oakland is being reflected in reduced fatalities throughout the county. Among others present at the meeting were Clyde Drennan, J. C. McPherson, J. A. Christie, H. N. Massey, A. W. Moore, Florence I. Anderson.

Love All—Why Wives Don't Leave Home; Or, a Dialogue That Might Have Been

Mrs. Moody Prefers Husband to Net Title; Quits Contests Here.—News note.

Scene: the Moody apartment in San Francisco
Time: the other evening, after dinner

Helen (not too enthusiastically): Well, I suppose I must begin packing tomorrow for Forest Hills. Will you tell the janitor, dear, to bring up the trunks?

Frederick (straightening up from the depths of his club chair): Say, are you going away again NOW? It doesn't seem as if you'd been at home five minutes, yet here you're starting off for another round of those tournaments, and I don't know when you'll be back. Why, we haven't been married a year! We might as well not BE married!

Helen (with irrefutable, if irritating logic): But you knew I wasn't going to stop playing tennis. We agreed on that beforehand. You've always been so interested in my game. I thought you were proud of me. I thought you liked to have me win championships. Why can't you come East with me yourself?

Frederick (impatiently): You know I can't break away from the office. A man my age has to stick to business if he's ever going to get anywhere. Competition is tough these days. Besides, what would I do, traveling with you to a tournament? I'm no prima donna's husband. That's what the papers would call me, you know—can't you imagine the headlines? "Helen's Husband Sees Net Tilt." "Little Poker Face Plays Best for Spouse." Grr-r-r-r!

MARGUERITE MOOERS MARSHALL

Helen (shivering a little, herself): I know—it's awful. Of course, I wouldn't have you look ridiculous. And I hate to go away again so soon; honestly, I do. But you'll be all right. I have that maid trained now——

Frederick (interrupting): The minute you're out of sight she'll do exactly as she pleases and you know it. I couldn't get my eggs cooked right all the time you were at Wimbledon. She never remembers to call up the dry-cleaner, and she never puts flowers around, the way you do. Of course, I could go to the club, but I'm fed up with it. All the fellows asking me how it feels to be married to a celebrity, and when will you come home to stay, and——

Helen (a little wickedly): I thought men liked to have their wives out of the way now and then, so that they could be free and play cards and go to stag parties—oh, all that sort of thing. When I was a little girl there used to be a song—something about "my wife's gone to the country, hooray, hooray!" Are you really sure you'll miss me?

Frederick (vehemently): You know—well I will! That stuff about the wild time enjoyed by summer widowers is the bunk. They're as lonesome as they are well-behaved, and that's saying something. Nobody to come home to, nobody to play around with, nobody to get things for, apartment like a tomb—oh, what's the use!

Helen (wistfully): It's such a sweet apartment now, don't you think? I got so many things abroad and I've worked so hard arranging them. It was an awful job, but I do think that the place looks cute. These English chintzes and that old silver and those terribly amusing little china figures—I suppose everything will get dusty while I'm gone. Besides, I wanted to entertain and show my new stuff to the girls—they'll be crazy about it. Of course, if I go away, I can't. A married woman has so many things to take into consideration.

Frederick (cajolingly): Aw, say, honey, don't go—we'll have a swell time if you pass up Forest Hills this year. What's the use—you know you're better 'n any of 'em. You'd just walk away with everything, as usual. Let 'em miss you, for once.

Helen: But I don't want people saying that, now I'm married, I have to stay at home, that I'm a squaw-wife. A girl simply has to show that she's independent, nowadays, even if she has a husband.

Frederick (eagerly): But you did show it—you made that long trip abroad all by yourself, when we'd been married less than six months. All our friends know that you are free to do just what you please; that I'd never try to coerce you. Only—what's the use of being married and having a home, if we're away from each other the whole time? I don't want my wife to be a traveling saleswoman—even of amateur tennis. I want her to be—my wife. Don't go, this year—just to please me. I don't WANT you to go!

Helen (softly): Well, I don't much want to go, either, and I guess—I won't.

Frederick (proudly): Say, Helen, you ARE a sport—I'll never forget this.

The game is now LOVE ALL, and the advantage scoring which follows is silent.

Helen (she thinks but does not say): I'm sure I'm doing the wise thing—Mother says that a young wife ought not to leave her husband alone too much.

Frederick (he thinks but does not say): Well, I put that over—I guess the boys won't kid me any more about not being able to keep my wife at home except between trains.

LAST RESORT

I never said, my dear, that all
You ever had to do was call
And I'd come running to your side.
Of course, as yet you haven't tried
To lure me back again, and so
You can't expect me, dear, to know

If I should get a call from you.
Why don't you call me just for fun
And see if I would really run?

"DAD, how do they make butter?"

"You drank enough buttermilk while you were in the country. Didn't you see them churn?"

"Yes, Dad, I saw them churn; but how does churning make butter?"

"The butter fats in the milk are heavier than the other portions, and when one churns or violently agitates the milk the particles of butter fat separate from the rest of the milk and, adhering to each other, form lumps of butter fat or butter."

"But how does the cow get the butter in her milk?"

"Oh, go to bed."

A DISH A DAY

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

If you have any boy or girl scouts in your family, you have no doubt been introduced to many of the delicious and savory dishes they concoct over a camp fire. Or perhaps, if your youngsters are lucky enough to own one of the big vacuum jars that are so convenient for carrying hot foods on picnics, you have watched them preparing some of their favorite dishes at home. Corn chowder is no novelty in your family if you have some of these enterprising youngsters around. It seems a prime favorite with them this summer.

KAREN HOLLIS

For the benefit of those who have not learned about this delicious soup from their youngsters, I am going to pass along the favorite recipe of some of my young acquaintances. They declare that there's nothing quite as good after a climb or a hike. First mix they serve it with s[illegible], but the [illegible] who have sworn allegiance to whole wheat products serve it with bran crackers or whole wheat bread toasted.

SCOUTS' CORN CHOWDER

6 pieces of salt pork, cut fine.
1 small onion, sliced
2 cups corn, cut from cob
1 cup diced potatoes, raw
2 large tomatoes
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons sugar
1 pimento, cut in strips
Few drops tobasco
1 pint boiling water
Pinch of soda
1 pint milk

Fry the small pieces of [illegible] pork over a low fire until they are golden brown. Add the onion and cook slowly for five minutes. Add the vegetables in layers: first a layer of thin slices of tomato, then half of the corn, then half of the potatoes. Sprinkle with salt and sugar, then add the rest of the vegetables. Add boiling water and strips of pimento and cook slowly until the potatoes are tender. Heat the milk to the scalding point in a separate pan, add the pinch of soda to the vegetable mixture, then pour in slowly into the milk and stir until thoroughly blended. Pour over crackers or toast in soup plates and serve very hot.

Modernizing the Home

A Smart Room for the College Girl

By Alma Zaiss

Dear Miss Zaiss:

Inclosed you will find a floor plan of a bedroom. Would you please advise me in decorating it? The only definite point is that it must have a double bed. No bureau or chifforobe is necessary as there is a built-in closet. Could you advise two ways—one a regular bedroom; the other a study and bedroom combined? The latter would probably have a day-bed.

(Miss) K. J.

Here Both Utility and Beauty Should Be Served

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

WHAT a fortunate girl Miss J. is to be able to plan and furnish her own room at college. For it is almost impossible to expect beauty and individuality of the average rented room that is furnished according to dormitory regulations, or the pocketbook of one who must make of renting rooms a commercial enterprise.

At college, where one naturally puts the best foot forward, it is doubly important to have a background that one can be proud of, and we are indeed happy to be able to suggest several attractive schemes for Miss J. Before settling upon a plan of action, let us see just what the practical needs of this room will be, so that we shall not neglect them in our enthusiasm over purely artistic details.

First, we shall want good light by day and by night, and an easy place to study night or day . . . that is to say, easy chairs and a desk where the light falls full upon papers and books. Then we must not forget the need for a place to serve tea and room for at least half a dozen girls to sit down and chat. A piece of furniture is also needed on the right side of the room to act as a balance for the big bulk of the bed on the left side. And this might well be a nice cabinet with ample storage capacity for the paraphernelia that belongs to the average college girl.

Taking up first the bedroom-study plan, which would be our personal preference, we direct attention to the scaled diagram No. 1, which shows clearly our idea of a very comfortable, convenient and attractive room for the girl at college. The day-bed of our choice would be a broad low one, with pillow rolls at the ends, a flat pillow for the center and two small ones at each side. Next come two small but comfortable arm chairs with low backs, and small twin book cases painted the color of the wall. A secretary-desk between the windows would be excellent, or if a lower desk is desired, use a Governor Winthrop type with a lamp on it and perhaps a hanging shelf above.

The cabinet (6) will hold such necessary college appurtenances as food, tea things and other equipment which one wants to keep out of sight. Near the door we have indicated a table, which might be a small drop-leaf type that could be opened out for tea.

This gives us our pieces of convenience, but it is upon the selection and distribution of color and pattern that the room will depend for its character. Let us say the walls are cream and the rug a simple clear flax type in heather mixture. We could have the bed painted a soft rich green and give it a spread of red linen with a rough woven texture. The pillow rolls would be covered with the same linen, and the odd cushions might be in greens and yellows.

The room is small, and light is important, which means that we should not have pretentious draperies. With the colors suggested it would be nice to use sill-length side draperies of a mixed chintz having a small pattern in which there is a good deal of red. The easy chairs could be upholstered in plain green or a small figured material piped in red. The desk, victrola or radio and stand will be brown, so why not have the cabinet (6) done in black and red? The colors suggested for this scheme are sturdy, cheerful colors that will wear well and prove very comfortable to live with.

If Miss J. happens to have ambitions modernistic, she may still use the plan outlined, substituting for conventional chairs, desk, stands and cabinet, pieces that follow modern lines. For example, the chair illustrated shows us how comfortable and distinctive one or a pair of good modern easy chairs might be in the girl's room. The little stand beside it and the vase and figurine also give decorative suggestions.

The slip-cover fabric shown in this picture comes in delicious tones of cinnamon pink, pale browns and turquoise. Following their suggestion, we might have cream walls, a deep blue-green carpet and full sill-length curtains of pale blue-and-green changeable theatrical gauze. Our couch could be covered in a shaded modern fabric toning from pale coral to deep terra cotta and brown, and among the loose cushions would be several in turquoise and darker blue-green shades. The chairs could be in the figured fabric, desk chair seat in turquoise, the cabinet to be a modern piece lined with salmon color and edged with turquoise blue. The little bookcases may be modern, and in their niches and those of the modern desk and cabinet there should be odd bits of pottery and ornaments in cream, turquoise and a hint of coral.

On the table it would be good to have a modern lamp with a base of turquoise pottery and a pleated paper shade of ivory crackled parchment. Also use a turquoise or blue-green cushion for the easy chair (3); the [illegible] stand (8) could be of modern metal with a top of bakelite, and if the radiator is covered it could be fitted with cushions that repeat the colors of the sofa fabric.

Diagram No. 2 gives recommendations for the room if a double bed is desired. Aside from the day-bed, practically the same pieces have been used, and a nice addition is the low bench (2) at the foot of the bed. What a handy place to throw one's clothes at night and to sit on when dressing in the morning!

Again we shall want to keep the curtains simple and not too strong in color, because the room is small for the number of its windows. With cream or light buff walls we might have a Wilton rug of plain medium green and soft green curtains for the window, using only one set in the manner of casement curtains. A cream or light tan-colored spread banded with green would be good for the bed, which should have low posts, since it juts out into the room so boldly.

The stand could be painted green trimmed with soft yellow binding. The wing chair needs a slip of cretonne having a light background and a design in many colors—red, green, yellow, and so on. If the table desk be of dark brown walnut, the easy chair beside it would look well in a slip cover of yellow linen or strie taffeta, either cotton or silk.

Pewter lamps and parchment or paper shades printed in some colorful design would be interesting for this scheme. The desk chair could be a Windsor or splat-back type finished the same as the desk, and it would be good to have the drop-leaf table also of walnut. The low bench at the foot of the bed could be covered with the same upholstering as that used for the small easy chair, and its woodwork might be painted green with yellow bands like the stand. Here it would be nice to have the bookcases stained the same color as the table.

Unless there happens to be a mirror in one of the closet doors, of course a good large mirror is needed to complete either plan. It may have to go above the cabinet or tea table or between the windows. And there should be pictures, lovely colorful ones—just a few of them, but good ones in harmony with the room.

It has been lots of fun to plan this merry little room, and we hope that, if she accepts our suggestion, Miss J. will have as good a time in it as we are sure that we would.

A Household Help

To prevent fly paper from becoming displaced, by wind or otherwise, cut a piece of heavy cardboard 8x14 inches. Attach the fly paper to the cardboard holder with wire paper clips at the four corners. If you have a center elevation to your trap your catch of flies will be increased, so bend upward the cardboard, lengthwise, at center, for about six inches in length and one-half inch wide.

Arrange Your Own County Fair

THE county fair season is near. You may not have a chance to go to a real county fair, but why not have one yourself? It will be quite as much fun as the real article.

Invitations especially designed are obtainable. You can also procure bridge sets consisting of four tables and sixteen napkins decorated with county fair characters which will answer for the refreshment tables whether it is a bridge party or not.

Have overhead decorations of bright colored streamers and paper pennants. Use pennants for light screens if the fair is held indoors. Lanterns of course will be used for outdoor illumination.

Refreshments must include "hot dogs" and pink lemonade. At an outdoor affair it will be nice to have an open fire and broil the frankfurters on the oven grate. Popcorn should be served, and if this is home popped and buttered or made into delicious popcorn balls or cakes and wrapped in wax paper it will be a real treat. Of course you will have ice cream and at the proper time have the peanut man serve bags of peanuts. These may be the salted variety, if you prefer them, and a peanut favor—home made or bought—may be inclosed in each bag.

This same man should appear at another period of the evening with a bunch of balloons in his hand. He calls out: "Right this way for your balloons!" and as the guests flock around him he presents a balloon to each. A balloon dance might be introduced at this point if there is dancing on your program.

If you wish to make it a county fair bridge party you can secure an ensemble consisting of tallies, score pads, prize tags, etc., carrying out the county fair theme.

County fair stationery is a new item in the gift shops, and this will make an appropriate prize.

Target shooting and the games where you shoot at birds and ducks are suitable. With a cardboard race track marked off in three dozen squares and half a dozen toy horses to play with an exciting horse race may be staged.

Seeing the animal exhibit can be made very amusing. Have one guest at a time enter a room or a tent and ask what animal he wishes to see. When he expresses his desire produce a mirror and tell him to look at the animal he selected. This usually proves a hilarious feature.

THINK IT OVER

By Alfalfa Smith

PEOPLE are used to their troubles. They travel around with them all day long. Please do not separate them from their troubles too quickly. It might jar their sensibilities.

It might help you in case you are having trouble to see how much of it can be charged to IMAGINATION.

If you have a vivid imagination—if you imagine people are talking about you when they really are not—then why not make some money with your imagination? Why not write a few sketches for the radio?

There is no use having a vivid imagination unless you can make good use of it.

MEET MR. COOLIDGE, THE COLUMNIST

A COLUMN writer at home—

"What are you thinking about, Calvin?"

"Thinking about what to write for tomorrow's column."

"Why don't you stress that the country's in a fundamentally sound condition?"

"Been using that idea in my last seventeen dispatches."

"How does the syndicate like what you've been writing at $4 a word?"

"Well, they're still accepting my messages collect—and they keep sending along their checks."

"At $4 a word I should think you'd do more writing."

"They only pay me for 200 words a day, anyway. That's what's worrying me—yesterday I wrote 210."

"I mean you ought to do more writing for the magazines, etc.

"How about you writing a few more poems yourself? You haven't done anything since that last one you sold to Good Housekeeping."

"Oh, it's harder to rhyme than just write essays like yours, Calvin."

"I'd rhyme my stuff, too, if they made it worth while."

"What I mean is, I think you ought to get busy on another magazine article. After all, 200 words a day doesn't take up all your time."

"I HAVE been writing for Cosmopolitan, the American Magazine and Ladies' Home Journal. What more do you want me to do?"

"Well, you haven't tried Judge or College Humor yet."

"I could send 'em some of my Coolidge anecdotes, but I understand they only pay $5 apiece. Gosh, I wish I could think of something for tomorrow's column!"

"Why don't you write about the weather, Calvin?"

"I'm going to wait till it gets a little better, so the national government can take credit for it."

"Well, you might write a column entitled 'Thoughts While Strolling,' like O. O. McIntyre does."

"I couldn't do that at $4 a word. This morning, while strolling, I said 'Howdy' to twenty people. That set met back $80. My thoughts while strolling wouldn't be fit to print."

"Oh, dear, if you're going to fret about what you write I wish you were back in the White House again."

"Why, I couldn't afford to be President at $75,000 a year! Besides, Mr. Hoover's entitled to another term."

"Do you think he'll run again, Calvin?"

"He's foolish if he does—with so much money in this writing game."

"I still don't see, Calvin, why you don't write more when you get such a lovely rate."

"That rate isn't so all-fired high. Why, in yesterday's dispatch I used the word 'internationalism' and I only got $4 for it."

"Why don't you take up song writing, then?"

"I have—in a way. I've been rewriting Happy Days Are Here Again since I started my column."

"I mean you might write some original songs and have Gen. Dawes compose the tunes for them."

"And have him split the money 50-50 on MY rep? Nothing doing! If I go into song writing I'll write the words and music, too."

"I only made that as a suggestion to occupy your spare time."

"I occupy my spare time, madam, thinking up hyphenated words. Then I can omit the hyphen in my copy and it counts as two words."

THIS AND THAT

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."
Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

Bush Produces Color Variety

ROANOKE, Va.—UP—Mrs. Ruby Martin, Roanoke, has grown two roses of distinctly different color in bloom on the same twig of the same rosebush. Roanoke Rose society representatives found the stem was of abnormal size and described the phenomenon as a bud mutation or "sport." The bush is of the "Frau Karl Durshki" variety, sometimes known as the American White Beauty. The two blooms grow on a nine-inch stem and have individual stems of three inches each.

Men Sentenced For Massacre May Be Freed

PORTLAND, Ore.—UP—Freedom for a number of I. W. W.'s, at the present time serving penitentiary terms for the Centralia massacre, Nov. 11, 1919, may soon be accomplished.

On that drab November day, 11 years ago, a number of members of the American Legion were shot, and as a result of the investigations several members of the I. W. W. were imprisoned.

The man who may yet save them is Rabbi Edward L. Israel of Baltimore, who is deeply enmeshed in war with what he terms "the sacredness of the status quo." This term, according to the rabbi, means that just because something happens to be as it is, it is not necessarily right. For example, one man may have $100, and another may have $10, but the man with the greater amount may have won ost of his by using foul play in business with the other—the connection is obvious.

Anyway, the rabbi intends to wage war in behalf of the imprisoned men.

"Our committee has a very exhaustive report on this matter," he said. "When it is published it will create interest, to say the least. I am not at liberty to give it out, but it will present facts that perhaps did not come out at the trial.

FITTS SCORES EXPENSES OF STATE

pay state taxes, and yet, because the taxpayer does not receive a formal tax bill from the state, or find his property levied upon by the state government, those in authority at Sacramento have been able to escape the consequences of popular complaint that would have followed more specific public knowledge of the real conditions.

"Yet you do pay state taxes, you and all the citizens of California. Every time you ride a street car, use the telephone, turn on the electric light or buy a railroad ticket, you pay state taxes. The steady stream of millions into the state treasury comes from nobody else but you. So you ought to be concerned about the costs of operating your state government and you ought to be concerned when they tinker with the revenue system of this state.

Will Appoint Competents

"My candidacy is not based on claims impossible of accomplishment, or on promises made merely for the purpose of getting votes. I have demonstrated that an important public office spending millions of dollars of public money can be made more efficient at less cost. The demonstration, if I am elected, I propose to repeat as governor. There is no horde of job-hungry politicians supporting me, and if I am elected, I shall be free to retain in office those competent to fill the positions they hold and to remove those who are there merely for political reasons.

Taxation the Issue

"There is one outstanding issue in this campaign. It affects every one of you. It is taxation, on which the present state administration has blundered, resulting in the most inequitable distribution of the tax burden California has ever known.

"Do not be misled by false propaganda, by irrelevant issues. Don't be fooled about the wet and dry question. It is not an issue in this campaign, the forces of Mayor James Rolph, Jr. to the contrary notwithstanding. The governor of California can do nothing to modify or repeal the prohibition law. It is your law; if it is to be changed, the people must change it, not the governor. Any honest governor will see that it, along with other laws, is enforced, whether he believes in it or not.

You Pay for Roads

"Don't be misled by the false propaganda about highways. The present governor does not pay for your highways; you do. Every time you buy a gallon of gasoline you pay for your roads. The governor does not give you the roads; the legislature does that. Any honest governor will continue to build highways. So the state highway system is not an issue.

"So you are not going to determine next Tuesday whether highway construction is to be continued; you are not going to decide anything about the wet and dry question; but you are going to decide whether the orgy of spending at Sacramento is to be stopped. You are going to decide whether California is to halt this dangerous tinkering with our tax laws.

Young's Tax Bungling

"Governor Young's political tax law reduced the state taxes of one large oil company from $368,910 in 1928 to $25 in 1929. All the major oil companies were similarly reduced. The big banks and big corporations were likewise reduced to a payment of $25 in state taxes for 1929. What they paid in local taxes has nothing to do with the case, because there was no tinkering with your local tax system.

"There is no excuse for such muddling on the tax question. If there was not some deliberate motive behind this new tax law, then it was the result of gross stupidity. The next governor must take into consideration the rights of all the people when it comes to tax revision, not merely the rights of the big banks and corporations."

Hear Fitts Radio Talks

Fitts returns to Southern California Saturday and will be heard Saturday evening in a statewide radio hookup from 7:30 to 8 o'clock over radio stations KFRC, KHJ and KMJ. He will be heard over the same network on Monday evening between 6:30 and 7 o'clock, when he will make his final appeal to the voters of the state.

Fight In 25 Cent Fight

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 22.—UP—A disagreement over 25 cents worth of repairs on an auto horn resulted tonight in the death of Rolland Kenville, 21, and the arrest of George Knoblock, 47, on charges of murder.

Kenville drove into Knoblock's garage for the horn. oNt being satisfied with the tone, the youth tried to make his own adjustments and the horn failed to work.

As he was about to drive away from the garage, Knoblock demanded a quarter and the youth refused to pay.

In the scuffle that followed, Kenville was stabbed.

Mining Firms Pay Large Tax

Sarazen Leads In Western Golf Match

ORION, Mich., Aug. 22.—UP—Gene Sarazen of New York today led the field of 73 qualifiers for Saturday's final round of the thirtieth annual Western open championship.

The stocky little Italian professional broke par by three strokes in today's 18-hole round with a 69 for a 36 hole total of 142 and took a two stroke lead over his closest competitor.

Tommy Armour, who established a new course record of 273 to win the tourney in 1929, reached the final round with a total of 153, but was counted out of the race, as was Johnny Farrell, 1928 national open champion ,who qualified with a 153.

Walter Hagen, pre-tourney favorite who shot a disappointing 77 in the opening round fought his way back into the first flight with a par 72 today, but will need sensational golf and a good share of luck to pass the 19 players now leading him in scoring.

Harry Hampton of Chicago, opening day leader; Al Watrous of Detroit, runner up to Bobby Jones for the 1926 British open title; Bob Shave of Aurora, Ohio; Emerick Kogsis of Detroit and Christian Brinke of Louisville, Ky., Kentucky amateur champion, tied for second place at 144.

John C. Watson, underhanded South Bend, Ind., professional and the veteran Laurie Ayton of Evanston, Ill., were next in line with 145's, while Al Espinoza, Chicago, Densmore Shute, Columbus Ohio, tied at 146.

New Pipe Organ To Be Dedicated At U. C. L. A. Soon

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 22.—Formal dedication of the new $50,000 pipe organ of the University of California at Los Angeles, will take place at 4 o'clock in the afternoon of Sunday, September 7, according to plans being worked out under the direction of Director Ernest Carroll Moore. The dedication will cente around an organ recital by Prof. Harold L. Gleason of the Eastman School of Music, of Rochester, N. Y., and the general public will be welcomed.

The pipe organ is now being installed in the auditorium of Josiah Royce hall, it being the result of a gift of $52,500 to the university by an anonymous person. The work of installation has been in progress since the closing of the spring semester and is now practically completed, it is announced. It is believed the organ will be one of the finest in tone to be found in California.

Moberg, assistant professor of oceanography at the University of California Scripps Institution of Oceanography, at La Jolla and who took a prominent part in the scientific investigations during the seventh cruise of the non-magnetic ship "Carnegie" in 1929, has joined in two reports to the department of terrestrial magnetism of the Carnegie Institution of Washington which have just been published.
